

Many, if not most of us have been reminded that we can make very detailed plans only to have them change because of circumstances beyond our control. Though the events taking place around us have been a temptation to become frustrated and discontent, the Lord has been using them to draw me closer to Himself.

Canada still has tighter restrictions in place regarding travel, but we are able to cross the border to return to our home in Aklavik. There are still a few details to confirm, but we are planning to begin the drive North from Missouri on July 6. This will have us crossing the border on July 9 and then another 4 or 5 days of travel to Inuvik where we will have to quarantine for 14 days before returning to Aklavik. There is potential that we would have to also quarantine in Alberta for 14 days as soon as we cross into Canada.

Our prayer request is for safety and provision as we travel, wisdom as we communicate with the government on specific details of our travel, not to have to quarantine in Alberta, and continued good health for Pam, Andrena, and myself.

Though we were unable to meet with and report to many of you, I plan to put together an update that can be emailed or downloaded to give a report on what the Lord has been doing in Aklavik over the last few years. We thank you and praise the Lord for using each of you to support and encourage us as we serve the Lord in the Arctic.
